

An ASB Assurance...

Quality ✓

Continuity ✓

Partnership ✓

AdvanSource Biomaterials takes great pride in our commitment of superior quality and product consistency to meet the medical device industry's requirements.

We understand the commitment our customers make in choosing the right material selection and the partnership that is formed through these efforts.

In a proactive response to concerns regarding a core material supplied by a leading vendor to the polycarbonate market, ASB has initiated and is well underway with a thorough analysis and validation of multiple sources of material for this component.

We are diligently pursuing these validations so as to provide the industry with material options both in substitution, as well as, extension product lines. As an ISO certified company, we have developed a multi-faceted plan in support of these objectives.

It is our commitment to assist our customers by identifying and fully validating raw material options so as to guarantee long-term continuity of supply for this critical component.

ASB...Building a strong foundation of reliability and consistency in support of industry needs.
