AdvanSource Biomaterials Corporation Approved by Shareholders
As New Company Name at CardioTech Annual Meeting;

Stock Ticker to Change to ASB on October 16

WILMINGTON, MA, October 15, 2008 – AdvanSource Biomaterials Corporation (NYSE Alternext US: ASB) was approved by shareholders as the new Company name at the CardioTech International, Inc. (formerly AMEX: CTE) annual meeting held at the Company's corporate headquarters on October 15, 2008. The Company, a developer of advanced polymer materials for medical device design and development, subsequently announced that its American Exchange stock symbol will change to NYSE Alternext US: ASB upon US market opening as of October 16, 2008.

Commenting on the Company's name change AdvanSource President and CEO Michael Adams noted: "The AdvanSource name more accurately reflects our clear scientific and technological expertise in materials science applications for a very broad range of disease states and anatomical sites. Our business model focuses on leveraging AdvanSource's unique strength in polymer science in order to grow and diversify our product offerings within existing customers as well as to expand our reach in the broader medical device community. We are encouraged by the growing number of inquiries for our polymers from both large and small companies whose businesses span a multitude of medical device sectors."
